Plus de 40 ans séparent la composition de la première et de la seconde Sonate pour violon et piano de Gabriel Fauré. "Sur tout cela plane un charme qui enveloppe l'œuvre entière et fait accepter à la foule des auditeurs ordinaires, comme une chose toute naturelle, les hardies- ses les plus violentes." (Camille Saint-Saëns)

More than forty years elapsed between the composition of Gabriel Fauré's first Violin Sonata and that of the Second. 'Over all of his hovers a charm that bathes the whole work, and makes the mass of ordinary listeners accept the most extreme strokes of daring as if they were perfectly natural.' (Camille Saint-Saëns)
